Alberta's impaired law could become harshest of all

► Transportation minister says stricter enforcement for repeat offenders possible ► City's acting police chief backs legislation

JEREMY NOLA
@METRONEWS.CA

Calgary police are applauding talk by Alberta's transportation minister of introducing the country's harshest impaired driving laws.

Ray Danyluk said yesterday the province is looking at advancing legislation adopted by British Columbia last year — which sees a three-day suspension and $200 fine handed to drivers who provide a blood-alcohol reading between .05 and .08 — one step further.

The proposed law would see stricter punishment for repeat offenders and those who chronically blow higher alcohol readings.

"We have to change the culture," Danyluk said. "If you're drinking you shouldn't be driving. At the end of the day, driving is a privilege."

Calgary police revealed earlier

Criticism

► Wonky? Some civil rights advocates have criticized the law for relying on breathalyzers that may be wonky. Police in British Columbia recalled more than 2,000 of the devices last year due to an unacceptably high margin of error.

this week that while the number of impaired-driving charges being laid has remained steady, members are seeing the average alcohol reading rise to nearly three times the legal limit.

Acting police Chief Trevor Daroux welcomed the minister's openness to stronger enforcement.

"From our perspective, this is absolutely about public safety," he said. "We know the current legislation, despite a lot of effort, has had minimal impact. People still continue to be killed or injured as a result of drinking and driving."

Danyluk said the province is also looking at changes to Alberta's graduated driver's licence program.

He stressed no decisions have been made and he hasn't received specific marching orders from Premier Alison Redford.

The newly elected Tory leader long expressed support for strengthening impaired-driving legislation during her time as justice minister.

Some members of Calgary's legal community have said stricter laws would be difficult to enforce and lead to numerous legal challenges; however, Daroux said that does little to hamper police support for the move.

"The fact that a law would be challenged, in my view, wouldn't be a reason to not implement it," he said.

Victim drives on after being 'filled' with bullets

Shot six times while driving, a motorist was still able to proceed on and find help late Tuesday night.

The incident took place around 11:45 p.m. in the area of 52nd Street Northeast and Peigan Trail.

A motorist, with no known criminal connections, claims he was driving when a newer-model SUV pulled up on his pedestrian side and at least one occupant opened fire, according to police Insp. Chris Butler.

"He was struck in both legs, the abdomen and the arms," Butler said. "Undoubtedly, it was a semi-automatic weapon of some sort, probably a handgun."

Bleeding profusely, the victim drove on a few kilometres to the Trans Canada Mall, where he finally pulled over and a bystander notified police. The victim was then transferred to hospital in stable condition.

"I think he's going to make a fairly full recovery," Butler said. "As full as you can after being filled full of bullets."

The two offenders are described as being East Indian males in their 20s.

Butler said no other witnesses have come forward and investigators continue to explore all avenues, including the possibility of mistaken identity.

A record day for city bank robberies: Cops

- Five locations were hit in morning hours, police say
- The pair behind three heists escaped police dragnet

JEREMY NOLAIS

Calgary banks were bustling yesterday but not in a good way.

Police report five heists in the morning hours at locations across the city in what Insp. Chris Butler described as a record day for that type of crime.

"It's certainly not one to be proud of, that's for sure," he remarked.

Three of the incidents occurred in the span of about 10 minutes at locations in the city's southwest.

Police pursued the pair believed to be responsible for those robberies but were forced to abandon the chase over fears for public safety, Butler said. He deemed the actions by the individuals "very rare."

In all instances, police say an aboriginal male walked into the bank, passed a note to the teller indicating he was armed and made off with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Neither the male nor a female seen inside his light-coloured SUV wore disguises, Butler said.

Mount Royal University criminologist John Winterdyk said the robbers' methodology reeks of desperation.

"Whether it was fuelled by drug needs, maybe they owe money, it seems something is pressing them to do something without much forethought," he said.

Calgary heists

- The city's first bank robbery yesterday occurred in the Westwinds area. Police Insp. Chris Butler said a suspect was taken into custody.
- Police were still actively looking for the individual responsible for the city's fifth bank robbery in the Cranston area.
- The suspect allegedly responsible for the other three bank heists is described as an aboriginal, male, about six feet tall, wearing dark glasses and a ballcap.
- The banks were located in the 4600 block of Bow Trail S.W., the 4900 block of Richmond Road S.W. and at 121 Stewart Green.

Schools placed in lockdown

Threats outlined in a text message were enough to force the lockdown of two Calgary high schools yesterday.

Police say a student at Jack James School received the message shortly before 10 a.m.

from a fellow student. It said he had a shotgun and was on his way to the school.

The offender's whereabouts could not be immediately determined and so staff made the decision to put both Jack James and nearby Forest Lawn High School into lockdown.

The 16-year-old suspect was later found at a Bowness residence and taken into custody. Charges are pending.

Alleged victim was free to leave: Defence

A man who says he was starved, beaten and tortured by his former roommate could have left at any time during the alleged abuse, a defence lawyer said yesterday.

Jim Lutz got into a number of heated exchanges with the 28-year-old alleged victim who was on the stand for his third and final day at Dustin Paxton's trial.

The man, who cannot be named because of a publication ban, conceded he had dreams of making it big with Paxton in boomtown Calgary and owning his own business.

But Lutz contended there was nothing to stop him from returning home to Winnipeg.

"I didn't want to give up and be known as a quitter or a sissy," the witness retorted.

"I had a severe brain injury and my judgment was totally compromised. Either I was at work making money or I was at home getting tortured."

Charges were laid after the witness was dumped — starved, battered and beaten — at a Regina hospital in the spring of 2010.

The witness has said the brain injury accounts for some of the inconsistencies the defence has pointed out in his statements.

► Financial troubles have called the future of the Youth Singers of Calgary into question. But the group has struck a hopeful chord with news that the Calgary Arts Development Authority could step forward with a loan.

Final curtain looms for singers

► Wrangle over old headquarters started downward financial spiral

JEREMY NOLAÏS
@METRONEWS.CA

Financial woes have raised fears among parents and young performers that a storied Calgary singing group could be muted.

The Youth Singers of Calgary have dazzled local and international audiences for more than 25 years. But interest charges accruing from renovations to their new headquarters have forced the group to seek help.

Marketing Manager Chris Jost said problems arose three years ago when their old headquarters in the Beltline was set to close to make way for an expansion of the Calgary Stampede grounds.

To draw more value from the city for the headquarters, Jost said Beltline Communities, which owned the property, tripled the group's rent and asked for a members' list in the hope of drawing further support to speak to the building's worth.

"Our board refused to deal with those terms," Jost said.

Rob Taylor, president of Beltline Communities, could not be reached for comment yesterday.

The Youth Singers moved to a new headquarters and are now on the hook for the final $300,000 of a $1.6-million renovation. Jost said the interest could cripple them.

Thoughts of shutting down are disturbing to Frank Diodati, who has three children in the Youth Singers. "It gave them the opportunity to be in front of people and create that self-confidence a lot of kids lack," he said.

Ald. Gian-Carlo Carra said feedback he has received proves the group is vital to the local arts community. "The message was this group is too big to fail," he said.

Pilot project to the rescue?

The Youth Singers of Calgary may not have to look far for their saviour. Terry Rock, president of the Calgary Arts Development Authority, said his group has been putting together a working capital loan fund and the singers could serve as a test candidate for it.

Free parking dwindling in city's transit lots

► The number of transit users reserving stalls was low when the system was first introduced in April ► No more than 50 per cent of any lot can be dedicated to reserved parking ► The rest of the stalls are free

By the numbers

- Forty-seven per cent of stalls in the Crowfoot LRT Park 'n' Ride lot are reserved.
- At Fish Creek – Lacombe station, 73 more people reserved for November than October.
- Dalhousie, Anderson and Brentwood stations have also seen an increase in the number of reserved stalls.
- When the new system was introduced, Theresa Schroder said the uptake was only about 16 or 17 per cent in most lots for the number of reserved stalls.

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

An increase in the number of reserved parking stalls at many Park 'n' Ride lots has left some transit users circling for a spot.

Calgary Transit spokesperson Theresa Schroder said more and more people are choosing to pay the $70 monthly fee for a guaranteed spot, which is why some of the free stalls are disappearing.

"These people who had free spots before are losing them but we're not going above what we're allowed to do and in most (lots), we're still below what we're mandated to be able to do."

Transit user Jacob Molina said it's frustrating to see the number of free spots dwindling at Crowfoot station, which Schroder said has 64 more reserved spots this month compared to October.

"I use the free spots but by the time I get here, they're all taken up and at that time, especially this lot," said Molina, pointing to a reserved lot, "it's empty."

Commuter Kim Klapey said she attempted to find a free spot only twice before she purchased a reserved stall.

"I think you're kind of forced into it because if you don't reserve a spot, you don't get parking, which means you can't take transit," she said.

Schroder said they are working to communicate to transit users that fewer free stalls were available as of Nov. 1.

Wind turbine pitched for high school

► Device aims to give students new avenue for learning ► Community members divided on proposal

JEREMY NOLAS

Winds of change may soon be blowing at a southwest Calgary high school.

The Calgary Board of Education is hoping to erect a 44-metre-high wind turbine on the property at EP Scarlett High School to give students a tangible example of alternative energy and provide 10 per cent of the power consumed on site.

"It's a learning opportunity to demonstrate renewable energy sources," said Frank Coppinger, CBE superintendent for facilities and environmental services.

Grade 10 student Valerie Brunskill said she is curious about alternative forms of energy and looks forward to discussing the turbine's use and social impacts in class.

"It's helping save our environment and change our ways," she said.

Coppinger said the turbine is relatively small and quiet compared to wind farms like the one in nearby Pincher Creek. Still some community members had reservations about it.

"I have read in the past about people suffering migraines and other health issues," said David Shuffler, a self-proclaimed solar-power promoter who lives a block from the school. "It's not totally embraced but those might be very small risks compared to the overall benefits."

If no major concerns are raised, the CBE will push ahead with applying for a development permit from the city next week.

Immigration levels to hold steady next year

► Feds create new class of immigrants that will let up to 1,000 PhD students become permanent residents annually

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney plans to hold immigration levels steady next year, but the mix of immigrants will change.

There will be more skilled workers — especially white-collar workers — as well as higher numbers of refugees, parents and grandparents, Kenney told reporters after tabling his 2011 annual report yesterday.

But there will be fewer spouses and dependent children, and fewer live-in caregivers, Kenney added — not because Ottawa doesn't want them, but because they are not coming in numbers as large as in the past.

Kenney tabled his 2011 annual report and it shows Ottawa wants to accept between 240,000 and 265,000 newcomers in 2012 — despite pressure from the opposition NDP to gradually raise the levels in order to deal with expected labour shortages in five years' time.

It's the same range as this year and in keeping with the annual average of 254,000 over the past few years, Kenney said.

But within that pool, the number of so-called "Canadian-experience class" immigrants will rise to about 7,000, Kenney said. That's up from 6,500 in 2011, and is the highest number ever in that category.

The class targets white-collar workers in certain occupations, many already with experience or education in Canada. It was created in 2008 and the Conservative government believes it has been very successful in attracting immigrants who adapt quickly to Canadian life, find jobs and add to economic growth soon after settling here.

WikiLeaks founder loses legal battle

► Experts say odds stacked against Assange avoiding extradition to Sweden to answer sex-crime allegations

WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange lost his appeal against extradition to Sweden to answer sex-crime allegations, but said yesterday he will now consider whether to take his protracted fight to Britain's highest court.

High Court appeal Judges John Thomas and Duncan Ouseley rejected Assange's claims that it would be unfair and unlawful to send him to Scandinavia to be questioned over the alleged rape of one woman and the molestation of another in Stockholm last year. The 40-year-old has denied wrongdoing, and insists the case is politically motivated by those opposed to the work of his secret-spilling organization. "We will be considering our next steps in the days ahead," Assange said outside the court. He did not seem angry or visibly upset, despite the substantial legal setback.

Lawyer Mark Summers confirmed that it was not clear whether his client would attempt an appeal to Britain's Supreme Court. His legal team has 14 days to decide whether to apply to the High Court, and then must try to persuade judges that there is a point of law to justify an appeal to the highest court.

Police dismantle mother's story

HANDOUT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Jury watches interrogation video at trial of alleged honour killers
► Accused's version put to test

A Montreal woman accused of killing her three daughters slowly changed her tune during a six-hour interrogation, as the investigator tried to appeal to motherly guilt, but he suggested her new story was just as implausible, court heard yesterday.

Tooba Mohammad Yahya, 41, her husband Mohammad Shafia, 58, and their son, Hamed Mohammad Shafia, 20, are all charged with four counts of first-degree murder in the deaths of three Shafia sisters and Shafia's other wife in a polygamous marriage. They have pleaded not guilty.

Yahya, Shafia and Hamed were arrested July 22, 2009, and yesterday the jury watched much of the video of the long interrogation of Tooba. RCMP Insp. Shahin Mehdizadeh was brought in to conduct the interview in Farsi.

For much of the interview, Mehdizadeh goes over ► Three teenage Shafia sisters, Zainab, 19, Sahar, 17, and Geeti, 13, along with Rona Amir Mohammad, 50, were found dead inside a submerged car on June 30, 2009, in locks in the Rideau Canal in Kingston, Ont.

► The three family members were interviewed by police that day, and in videos shown to the jury, they can be seen suggesting that Zainab, who didn't have a driver's licence, took the car keys so she could take the Nissan Sentra for a joy ride. The car ending up in the canal was a terrible accident, they suggested.

Soldier who killed comrade testifies at trial

A former Canadian reservist charged in the shooting death of a fellow soldier in Afghanistan testified in his own defence yesterday, saying he fired his weapon instinctively when he thought someone was pointing a gun at his back.

Matthew Wilcox of Glace Bay, N.S., is charged in the death of Cpl. Kevin Megeney at Kandahar Airfield on March 6, 2007.

Wilcox, who is facing a second court martial in the case, told the military court he had neglected to remove a loaded magazine from his nine-millimetre Browning pistol before entering a tent he shared with Megeney, a friend from Stellarton, N.S.

Under cross-examination, Wilcox admitted he could have removed the magazine several times before entering the tent, but he failed to do so — a violation of an order that stated Canadian military person-

Wilcox testified he was unloading gear in the tent when he heard the sound of a pistol being readied for firing.

Pilot error cited in Russian jet crash that killed hockey team

► Investigator says company failed to observe safety standards and adequately train crew ► Pilots had previously flown other type of plane

A Russian pilot inadvertently put the wheel brakes on during takeoff, causing a crash that killed 44 people including a professional ice hockey team, investigators said yesterday, citing lax oversight and insufficient crew training as key reasons behind the error.

The Interstate Aviation Committee said the Sept. 7 crash of the Yak-42 plane near Yaroslavl in central Russia occurred because one of the two pilots accidentally activated the brakes and then yanked a control wheel to his chest, pulling the plane up too sharply in a desperate attempt to take off.

Alexei Morozov, leader of the investigation, said the crew should have aborted the takeoff the moment they realized it was going wrong.

He said one possible reason the pilot obstinately still tried to take off was a fear of reprisals from his employer.

"Many pilots say that those who cause delays in flight schedules ... run into various problems at many carriers," Morozov told a news conference. "Company management doesn't like it."

Canada's quality-job pace slows

Canada's 1.4 million unemployed were finding it tougher to land better-paying jobs, particularly in the public sector, as the pace of job growth in Canada appeared to slow during the third quarter, according to employment reports released yesterday.

CIBC said its Canadian Employment Quality Index, which measures both the compensation and stability of jobs, sat roughly where it was on the eve of the last recession.

While the economy generated on average 17,000 new jobs a month during the period, that was down from 29,000 a month in the second quarter and 33,000 in the first — and those fewer jobs were generally of lower quality, the report added.

Confidence among small- and mid-sized-business owners climbed slightly in October, according to the Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

Its October barometer was a modest 63.6, almost a point above September's

The CFIB says index levels normally range between 65 and 75 when the economy is growing.

Energy company admits 'fracking' caused tremors

PETER BYRNE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► Protesters scale a shale gas rig at Banks, near Southport, England, bringing a halt to work at the Cuadrilla Resources site yesterday.

- Hydraulic fracturing on rise
- Critics say it could poison water

The only company in Britain using hydraulic fracturing to release natural gas from shale rock said yesterday that the controversial technique probably did trigger earth tremors in April and May.

But a report commissioned by Cuadrilla Resources, which is drilling for gas outside the north-western English coastal town of Blackpool, cautioned that the tremors, measuring 1.9 and 2.8 on the Richter scale — were due to a combination of geology and operations unlikely to happen again.

Cuadrilla is the only company currently extracting shale gas using hydraulic fracturing — a technique by which a mix of water, sand and chemicals are pumped deep inside underground rock formations to free the gas.

Fracturing operations were suspended on May 27 following the detection of a tremor centred just outside Blackpool.

Environmental activists have raised concerns about the potential impact on water quality. Critics say fracking could poison water supplies, while the natural gas industry says it's been used safely for decades. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A survey by the Bank of Canada shows consumer goods cost an average of 11 per cent more in Canada than in the United States.

JAILS ARE A LOT LIKE COFFEE SHOPS — OR THEY SHOULD BE

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

Attention, readers who value their lives: You are in danger! While you read this innocuous-looking sentence (don't be fooled!), criminals could be violating your home, office or body.

That's because crime is everywhere. It's in Canadian downtowns, uptowns, upper downtowns, downer uptowns, suburbs, ghettos, bayous, kibbutzes, duck blinds, under the bed, below the gum line, and even in those stubborn and hard to reach places, like Moose Factory. No one is safe.

To be honest, if you've read this far without undergoing some form of violent attack, major theft or unwanted touching, such as the "noogie," then you should count your blessings. If you count them closely, I think you'll find that several have been stolen.

"By raising your vigilance, we are protecting you from the inevitable crime of the future and the unreported crime of the past."

And now the truly frightening part: There's nothing you can do about it.

That's why the Conservative government is getting — nay, must get — tough on crime.

I for one fully support their tough-on-crime agenda (which dovetails nicely with their tough-on-arts and tough-on-environment agenda).

As a left-wing media stooge, I'm expected to oppose everything the Conservatives do, but truth is the media and the government are on the same page, crime-wise.

We both recognize that the quickest way to get people's attention is through fear.

That's why so many newscasts begin with some variation on the question, "Should Canadians be worried?" To which the implicit but unspoken reply is "Yes, OF COURSE you should be worried; otherwise, we wouldn't be bringing you a story about this unprecedented CRISIS, would we, stupid?"

So I say increase the number of prisons until they rival the number of Tim Hortons. Criminals won't dare commit crimes if there's always a clink within view.

Don't think us crass, though. I think it's clear that, whether government or media, we scare because we care. We worry about crime because we're worried about your well-being. By raising your vigilance, we are protecting you from the inevitable crime of the future and the unreported crime of the past.

Understand? You win. We care.

And, if you don't remain vigilant, who knows what might happen? Personally, I worry you'll miss out on something truly scary and horrible, and you'll be so embarrassed you were out of the loop that you'll just wish you were dead.

And if you do die, we in the media will be there to cover it. Like we care.

Letters

The recent actions of the Conservatives, in particular Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz regarding the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB), disregard federal legislation.

The CWB was established through the Canadian Wheat Board Act (1943), federal legislation providing farmers with a common economic voice. The act mandates the process by which the CWB can be dissolved, explaining that the government is legally bound to hold a plebiscite that results in a majority of the CWB members voting in favour of dissolution. Our government has refused to follow this process.

In lieu, the CWB held an independent plebiscite resulting in a 62 per cent majority supporting the CWB single desk for wheat. Nonetheless, Ritz tabled the Marketing Freedom for Grain Farmers Act, a bill that would dismantle the CWB by August of 2012.

We are gravely concerned by our government's failure to acknowledge the CWB Act.

Putting a face on tumours — literally

Doctors at Queen's University in Kingston did a double take when they spotted what looks like the face of a screaming man in an ultrasound of a testicular tumour.

What was meant as an inside joke between doctors went viral after it was published in a recent issue of the journal Urology.

The image has been compared to sightings of the Virgin Mary or Jesus

In the journal, the doctors said they debated "whether the image could have been a sign from a deity" — notably the Egyptian god of virility — but quickly dismiss it as a coincidence.

"When I was diagnosed, I was given a very slim chance of survival due to the really advanced stage of my cancer. I had over 500 hours of chemotherapy and high dose chemotherapy over eight months, as well as a stem cell transplant and two surgeries," shares Mike Metcalfe, who in Jan. 2004 discovered he had stage three testicular cancer — the most advanced form.

To make matters worse, the cancer had already spread to his lymph system and lungs.

"My doctors opted for one last major surgery. This was a total, last-ditch-effort that, if worked, would cure me. If not, it would have me saying goodbye a little earlier than I would've liked."

Before that fateful day, Metcalfe's family and friends (many of which were his soccer buddies) rallied around him.

They wanted to host a soccer marathon fundraiser in his name and to promote a cause he cared about.

See, despite facing slim odds of survival, Metcalfe couldn't help but share how he wanted to make a difference to the apheresis unit of the Foothills hospital — the one that handled his stem cell transplant.

"The nurses worked in completely undesirable conditions," he says of their work stations.

"The whole department was in one room meant for two beds, but there were four beds, three nurses, a doctor and all the storage for the unit."

That was enough to put Metcalfe and his brigade on a mission.

Within two weeks of their first marathon event, they raised $80,000.

To date, they are pushing the $500,000 mark.

This year, they are expecting special guests including Mayor Nenshi to attend the kick-off ceremony taking place this Friday at 3:45p.m. at the Subway Soccer Centre (7000 48 Street SE).

Registration is $20 and over 1,000 people are expected to participate in the 30-hour marathon. To sign-up or donate, visit soccer-marathon.org.

'They wouldn't let me be me'

► Ex-X Factor singer Haygood says he cut deal to exit ► Producers wouldn't let him be a rocker

Former The X Factor contestant Dexter Haygood said he wasn't pushed off Fox's new singing contest. He jumped.

Haygood was among five contestants eliminated from the show last week. But the rock singer with the James Brown rasp said that what viewers saw didn't reflect the whole story, including a behind-the-scenes agreement to ensure the swift exit he wanted.

According to Haygood, 49, who was part of mentor-judge Nicole Scherzinger's group of age 30-plus contestants, he told Scherzinger two days before last Wednesday's live performance show that he was dissatisfied with X Factor.

"I wanted to leave the show because I was unhappy that I was unable to be a rock artist. I grew up on rock," said Haygood, of Memphis, Tenn., who enjoyed the spotlight in the 1980s as frontman for the rock group Xavion, which toured at one point with Hall & Oates. Being called on to do pop songs such as Beyoncé's Crazy in Love and Katy Perry's I Kissed a Girl was aggravating, Haygood said: "Can you imagine Steven Tyler, Mick Jagger, James Brown, doing (the Crazy in Love chorus) 'uh oh uh oh uh'?"

Producers "seemed to have their way of doing things. I'm not sure why they wouldn't let me be me," he said Tuesday.

Scherzinger, former member of the Pussycat Dolls, took his complaint to the show's producers and came back the same day with an offer, according to Haygood: He would be bounced on Thursday's results show if he agreed to return for the season finale.

Neither Scherzinger nor Fox immediately responded to requests for comment.

Haygood said he was contractually bound to remain on the show and wouldn't have quit, but he appreciated the out he was given — despite the $5 million record contract that goes to the winner.

Fox gave X Factor a lavish promotional launch but the show hasn't lived up to the 20 million weekly viewers predicted by series creator Simon Cowell, with 12.1 million watching last Tuesday's show.

► Dexter Haygood was eliminated from X Factor last week.

Reality TV condones bullying: Housewife

Fans of Bravo's Real Housewives cable TV reality franchise often tune in for the catfights and drama, but one Atlanta housewife says the genre may encourage bullying.

"Unfortunately I do think that reality TV has spawned a whole culture of bullying," said Phaedra Parks in an interview with The Associated Press on Tuesday.

"I believe that the behaviour you see on reality TV does not exactly exemplify how adults should be conducting themselves."

Highlights of the series, which has been replicated in seven cities across the U.S., include volatile tempers, verbal outbursts, name calling and allegations of mean tweeting — and who can forget the infamous New Jersey table flip seen 'round the world?

The last season of The Real Housewives of New Jersey kicked off with a chaotic, physical altercation at a baby christening, while the new season in Beverly Hills, California, has focused on veteran castmates ganging up on and ostracizing new girl Brandi

Glanville, going as far as hiding her crutches while she had a broken foot.

Parks said she believes parents need to monitor what their children watch and insists that series like hers are not meant for young viewers.

Season 4 of The Real Housewives of Atlanta premieres on Bravo on Nov. 6.

No holds barred for Neil

► Actor resumes his crazy role in A Very Harold & Kumar 3D Christmas

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Neil Patrick Harris has successfully come out of the post-child star wasteland to become one of the biggest stars working today, with a hit sitcom on CBS, gigs hosting every major awards show but the Oscars, and a large fanbase cheering him on.

And since it was his jaw-dropping cameo in 2004's Harold & Kumar go to White Castle that helped relaunch his career, naturally he was game to come back for the franchise's third instalment, A Very Harold & Kumar 3D Christmas — even if he did get shot and killed at the end of the last film.

But you can't have NPH return from the dead for another Harold & Kumar film without upping the ante on his atrocious behaviour.

When asked if there's a line he wouldn't want to cross with his onscreen alter ego, Harris insists it's far too late for that kind of thinking.

"That's such a tough question because I never thought that any of this would've been written," he says.

"I wouldn't even have imagined that I would be smoking crack and trying to forceably enter a dancer girl. I don't know where the line gets drawn here anymore."

Of course, Harris' rising profile — and public coming out of the closet — have become factors since the original film, leaving a lot for the filmmakers to address.

How NPH fits in

► In A Very Harold & Kumar 3D Christmas, the boys stumble upon Neil Patrick Harris rehearsing a Rockette-studded holiday spectacular, complete with show tunes and kick-lines.

Harris was happy to poke fun at his newfound status — he's referred to as America's Sweetheart in the film — as long as he got a say in the jokes as usual. That held especially true since Harris' husband, David Burtka, was along for the ride this time.

"I was more cautious and protective of those scenes than any of the others, weirdly, just because I didn't want it to feel exploitative or like a sight gag and nothing more," says Harris.

"I know David to be a well-trained Albee actor from New York, and I just didn't want it to seem like we were using him for some sight gag and then end it. And I didn't want to leave a bad taste in anyone's mouth about him on my watch, right?"

In the end, Burtka is used to great comic effect — and we'll just leave it at that for now.

As much affection as Harris has for the franchise that helped make him a star again, that doesn't necessarily mean he's a lock for any and all Harold and Kumar adventures in the future.

So what would it mean to have the duo hit the big screen without NPH?

"I think Jonathan Taylor Thomas would be thrilled," Harris says with a laugh.

► Neil Patrick Harris has been a staple in the Harold & Kumar movies.

Carter just fine being The One

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

While the Backstreet Boys have been enjoying a career revival — thanks to their annual S.S. Backstreet cruises for fans and their hit tour with the New Kids on the Block — BSB member Nick Carter has been finding success as a solo artist, as well.

He brings his act to Canada this week before heading to Japan and then boarding the cruise ship once more in December.

You're touring with a full band now, right?

Yeah, about four band members, yes. The show is jam-packed. It's all set up and it's going to be like a rock concert, but with pop and dance.

It's going to be a really cool, unique show — a lot different, actually, than a Backstreet Boys show.

How so?

Well, it's different for the audience because my concert is almost like a hybrid rock concert. Because a lot of my songs are from the past, things that I'm influenced by. You know, a little bit of rock music, funk. I play guitar, I dance. I'm putting on a show — we've got costumes, choreography for the band members, all sorts of crazy stuff.

What's your experience been in Canada, and what are you looking forward to this time?

Well, my experiences have always been fantastic. The Canadian fans, they love our music and they love what we stand for — it's sort of like a cult following. (Laughs) It's like you're a part of something that some people don't want to be a part of anymore, and yet we stand for something. So that's kind of what the Canadians do, they really love our music and they love pop music. They believe in our talent, and that's why we keep coming back.

How has the response been to your latest solo album?

The response has been amazing. I think, the fans felt that I was giving them back a little bit of what they know so well after a bit of going too far left — being too much rock, going too far from what they know.

► Justin Bieber

A California woman claims that Justin Bieber is the father of her four-month-old child and wants the 17-year-old pop star to take a paternity test, according to TMZ. "He told me he wanted to make love to me and this was going to be his first time," the woman, 20-year-old Mariah Yeater, says in a sworn affidavit, explaining that they met backstage after an L.A. concert in October 2010, where Bieber allegedly invited her to join him in private — in a bathroom.

"We went inside and immediately his personality changed drastically," Yeater says.

"At the time I asked him to put a condom for protection, but he insisted that he did not want to. In his own words, he said that because it was his first time he wanted to feel everything."

Bieber's camp is denying the allegations, of course: "While we haven't yet seen the lawsuit, it's sad that someone would fabricate malicious, defamatory, and demonstrably false claims," the singer's reps say. "We will vigorously pursue all available legal remedies to defend and protect Justin against these allegations."

WHAT ABOUT THE GIFTS, KIM?

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Day three of Kardashian divorce coverage and we're not slowing down — not when, like Pompei, there are so many unanswered questions out there.

But they won't be unexplained for long as — wouldn't you know it? — it just so happens Kris Jenner has a new book, Kris Jenner: And All Things Kardashian, that she has to promote!

The ladies of The View grilled Mama Kardashian yesterday and whereas Jenner was very honest, she says she doesn't know what her daughter will do with that $2 million dollar engagement ring.

But we do, thanks to a quick chat with etiquette expert extraordinaire, Lizzie Post, co-author of the new book Emily Post's Etiquette: 18th Edition. And although "etiquette" and "Kardashian" go as well together as "Larry King" and "sex tape," she does have some good points.

"That's her ring to keep," she advises.

"It's really hers and it's up to her on what she decides to do with it.

"She did have a marriage. Just because it didn't last very long doesn't mean she didn't follow through with her engagement."

But, as for the news Kardashian is donating her millions of dollars worth of wedding gifts to charity, Post says that is just wrong, wrong, wrong.

"It's totally inappropriate!" she laughs.

"I know her heart is in the right place but the truth of the matter is, the intention behind a wedding gift isn't to be donated, it was for them to be used as gifts for Kris and Kim and their life together."

"The appropriate thing is to return them to the person who gave it — especially if she goes and gets the tax write-off for them."

Post's last piece of etiquette advice is that everyone (even big-headed gossip columnists like myself) need to be respectful of their divorce.

"Everyone should be very open minded and respectful now," says Post.

"I don't care who you are — having a marriage dissolve after that short of time is very painful," she adds.

Kutcher's TV life is also steamy

The latest episode of Two and a Half Men featured a bit of art imitating life, thanks to a line of dialogue from Ashton Kutcher's character that was either meant to poke fun at his cheating scandal or serve as some sort of announcement about he and Demi Moore's marriage.

While discussing redecorating ideas, Kutcher's character says, "Can I have a jacuzzi on the balcony? Because I'm single now, so I'm going to be having sex with a lot of women I haven't met yet."

Lip balm that won't catch flies

"I wear my hair down a lot so I'm not a fan of lip-gloss," says the Roc Nation singer who is currently working on a new album. "If I'm on stage and the wind blows then my hair will get stuck on my mouth so I avoid it. MAC's pink lip conditioner gives just a little bit of tint and looks like a gloss without the sticky shine. It's just enough moisture to look like makeup."

Beating the bad skin days

"The NARS duo concealer in custard/ginger saves my life when I'm having a breakout," Kelly explains. "It completely covers what I need covered. And if I have a show, MAC studio tech compact gives me complete coverage and gives my face a glow."

The trick to cheek contouring

"I have high cheekbones so it's really easy for me to mess the blush up and end up looking like a doll."

For the best result I use a small brush with St. Tropez Bronzing Rocks. I try and contour the powder below my cheekbones by making a fish face and pouting my lips so I can see where my cheekbone line is and then I just brush underneath it. This helps illuminate them a little more."

Now I've started experimenting and I'm more comfortable with the idea so I sometimes go for an orange, bright pink or dark purple lip, colours that used to horrify me."

Fun decorations for fall

► You dressed the kids for Halloween, now you can dress your home for autumn ► Use seasonal materials

DIY IDEAS

It's easy to capture the feeling of the season without displaying fake and over-the-top decorations.

These simple tips will update the look of your home.

While decor is an easy trick, some lucky homeowners are subject to ambush contracting at its best with host Josh Temple in DIY Network Canada's House Crashers.

Stunned homeowners win the remodel lottery with dramatic, eye-popping home transformations.

Use these eye-catching materials to add beautiful autumn decor to your porch or yard.

Dried cornstalks

These can be purchased at roadside vendors or other locations where pumpkins and apples are sold.

Bunch together 15-20 dried cornstalks at a time and tie in the middle with twine.

Add a colourful ribbon around the twine in burgundy, green, orange, or a colour that suits your home.

Place them on either side of an entranceway for a beautiful first impression.

Plants

Mums are the key to a fall feeling. Find a colour that will bring a zing to your overall decor.

Flowering cabbages are another great way to include plants.

Both of these can be purchased and kept in pots to be displayed in front of your house if you don't have room in the garden.

Pumpkins and gourds

This is one of the simplest ways to decorate for fall.

Arrange an assortment of pumpkins and gourds in varying sizes and shapes to dress up any walkway, staircase or entrance.

Dried corncobs

These come in a variety of colours and add harvest flair to fall decorating.

Tie them to cornstalk bunches or include in larger arrangements.

Wooden signs

Autumn is a great season to display your favourite craft items outdoors.

► Painted wooden signs can be purchased from craft fairs or made yourself to bring fall sentiments to your decor.

► Say it loud: You can include signs that are simple, like "apples," or paint your favourite family sayings.

Wreaths

Whether homemade or store-bought, wreaths are a great way to dress up your entrance.

Think of including berries, mini gourds, silk flowers or leaves, and colourful ribbon.

HOUSE CRASHERS AIRS WEDNESDAYS AT 9 P.M. ET/PT ON DIY NETWORK CANADA.

► Don't wait until December to put a wreath on your door.

Bursting with harvest flavours

► Using oats and rice in this veggie burger gives it a great texture

DINNER EXPRESS

EMILY RICHARDS
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

Instead of trying to pass it off as meat, why not embrace the idea of a veggie burger and make one that tastes and looks like what it is?

That was the motivation in creating this harvest burger, a patty bursting with flavour, not to mention onions, red pepper, corn, pumpkin, rice and oats.

Preparation:

1 In a skillet over medium-high, heat 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the oil. Add onion and cumin; sauté until onion softens and begins to brown. Add red pepper and corn kernels and sauté until just tender, 3 to 4 minutes.

2 Transfer mix to bowl and let cool 5 minutes. Add rice, oats, pumpkin, cilantro, balsamic vinegar, cayenne, salt and pepper. Stir to combine. Form mix into 6 patties.

3 Heat remaining olive oil in skillet over medium-high. Add patties to skillet, in batches if needed, and brown for 3 minutes per side. Serve on buns with preferred condiments. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND A TV CELEBRITY CHEF. FOR MORE, VISIT EMILYRICHARDSCOOKS.CA/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients:

- 45 ml (3 tbsp) olive oil
- 1 onion, diced
- 5 ml (1 tsp) ground cumin
- 1 red bell pepper, core and diced
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) corn kernels, fresh or frozen
- 250 ml (1 cup) cooked brown rice
- 250 ml (1 cup) quick oats,

lightly toasted

- 1 can (398 ml/14 oz) pumpkin or squash puree
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) chopped fresh cilantro or parsley
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) balsamic vinegar
- Pinch cayenne pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) salt
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) black pepper
- 6 burger buns

► Skip the typical burger sides in favour of a steaming cup of seasonal and tasty Ruby Red Beet Soup

Beets offer up a jewel-like red colour to this soup and they are full of nutritional goodness and flavour.

When making the Ruby Red Beet Soup, look for larger beets to save time peeling.

Preparation:

1 Shred the beets, onion and potato in food processor fitted with shredding disk (or use a box grater). Place vegetables in a large saucepan along with chicken broth and orange peel. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes or until veggies tender. Let cool slightly. Discard orange peel.

2 Puree vegetables in batches in a blender or food processor until smooth. Return to saucepan and reheat until hot. Remove from heat. Stir in vinegar; season with salt and pepper to taste.

3 Garnish each serving with a dollop of yogurt and sprinkling of chives.

Phaneuf deal looking like a steal for Leafs

► Dion Phaneuf hits Dainius Zubrus of the New Jersey Devils last night.

THE HOCKEY NEWS

BRIAN COSTELLO
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

With each passing day and each passing ex-Leaf in the press box, the 2010 Dion Phaneuf trade to Toronto is looking worse and worse for the Flames.

I remember liking the trade at the time. Phaneuf’s offensive contribution had dried up, he was a train wreck in his own end and there were issues in the dressing room. He needed to be moved while he still held value. I thought Calgary GM Darryl Sutter could have and should have received a lot more for Phaneuf — quality rather than quantity, perhaps — but the players coming Calgary’s way had merit, or so I thought.

I had watched Niklas Hagman play a lot of games in Toronto and score at a near 30-goal pace for most of three seasons, including during his time with Dallas. At best, he could beef up the second line. At worst, he’d be one of the top third-liners in the NHL. In Calgary he handles the puck like a plumber, scoring just 17 goals in 105 games, and is erratic as a $3-million checker.

And what of Matt Stajan? Poor, soft Matt Stajan. He came to Calgary a second-line centre masquerading as a top-line pivot. In short order, he proved he doesn’t have the speed, durability, creativity or scoring touch to play on the top two lines. Demoted to the bottom two lines, Stajan has not shown the work ethic or checking ability to be important in that role. He’s not worth the $500,000 league minimum, let alone the ridiculous $14 million Sutter signed him to over four years. Stajan is best-suited to the press box, where he and Hagman have spent time recently.

For a while, it looked as though steady Ian White might be the best return from Toronto. But his defensive play slipped and he was traded to Carolina for Anton Babchuk last season. Jamal Mayers, the fourth player Calgary got in the seven-player Phaneuf deal, was a fourth-line checker who didn’t hang around very long.

Meanwhile in Toronto, Phaneuf is putting up points and throwing his body around. His defensive game still needs plenty of work, but he’s not as bad as he was in Calgary. Bottom line right now, he’s the captain of a Leafs team vying for first place in the conference.

Media in Toronto refer to the Phaneuf trade as a “fleecing.” And that’s exactly what it has turned into. Even Sutter couldn’t disagree with that.

Playoff fate in Bombers’ hands

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers have one thing the Calgary Stampeders do not as they head into their last regular season game this weekend — control of their own destiny.

Win and the Bombers are No. 1 in the East and can rest until the Eastern final. Lose and they have to hope the cards fall their way with Montreal losing to the B.C. Lions, which would also put the Bombers into top spot.

That’s life in the CFL, where five teams sit with the same 10-7 record as the season ends.

History doesn’t seem to be on Winnipeg’s side, with their last win in Calgary in 2002. Still, coach Paul LaPolice insists he isn’t losing sleep over the long losing streak.

“You can’t look to the past. What this team did five years ago has no bearing on this game,” he said after practice yesterday.

The Bombers are resting Saturday’s hopes on backup quarterback Alex Brink, with starter Buck Pierce out again with an injury — this time a sprained knee.

The team also has a maddening habit this year of winning the tough games and losing the ones that should be easy. Perhaps that’s good since Calgary, riding high on new quarterback Drew Tate, looks anything but easy.

CFL awards

Quarterback Anthony Calvillo was named the Montreal Alouettes’ nominee for the CFL Most Outstanding Player award yesterday in voting conducted by members of the Football Reporters of Canada and CFL head coaches. Calvillo has won the award in 2003, ’08, ’09.

► Receiver Nik Lewis of the Stampeders was also nominated for the award. Lewis is third in CFL receiving with 89 catches for 1,153 yards and five touchdowns.

► Other Calgary players nominated include tailback Jon Cornish (top Canadian) and defensive back Demetri Morley (top rookie).

Quade first casualty of Cubs’ Epstein era

CHARLES REX ARBOGAST/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► Theo Epstein

Theo Epstein is looking for a new manager to lead the Chicago Cubs. He knows exactly the type of candidate he wants, too.

In his first major on-field move since becoming the team’s president of baseball operations, Epstein fired Cubs manager Mike Quade yesterday and began the search for his replacement.

The move came one day after the club introduced new general manager Jed Hoyer and scouting/player development head Jason McLeod.

Epstein, who joined the Cubs a little more than a week ago, laid out the qualifications he has in mind for the next manager. One is managerial and/or coaching experience in the major leagues, which eliminates popular fan choice and former Cub Ryne Sandberg.

Epstein spoke with Sandberg yesterday and let him know that he wasn’t in the plans. Sandberg did manage in Chicago’s minor league system but left after Quade was chosen as Cubs manager in the 2010 season. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
